++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Wet at first this weekend, becoming fine later.

Today:
An icy start, with areas of low cloud and some fog patches slow to clear. Some bright or sunny spells developing during the day. Rather cold, especially where any low cloud or fog persists. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Tonight:
Dry with some clear spells this evening, then a band of rain arrives from the west to give persistent rainfall during the early hours. Feeling cold, with winds strengthening. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Saturday:
Overnight rain, possibly turning wintry over high ground, continues, though clearing by midday and leaving scattered showers behind. Brighter later. Risk of ice continues. Milder into the afternoon. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Dry with a mixture of cloudier areas and sunny spells Sunday and Monday. Thicker cloud, rain and stronger winds arrive Monday night and continue through into Tuesday.
